PROVIDER NAME AND ADDRESS

The Pennsylvania Department of Health (DOH) offers a health program for women called the HealthyWoman Program (HWP). This Program offers breast and cervical cancer screening. Screening can find cancer early so it can be treated or cured. The way to screen or test for breast cancer is to have a doctor or nurse examine your breasts and to have a breast X-ray, which is called a mammogram. The way to screen for cervical cancer is to have a pelvic exam and a Pap test. A Pap test is a smear taken from the cervix during the pelvic exam. The HWP pays for screening tests. If you are eligible for this Program, you should not be asked to pay for these tests.

If you have an abnormal screening test result, sometimes more tests are needed. The HealthyWoman provider will help you get the extra tests. The Program can pay for some of the extra tests needed. The provider will tell you if the Program will pay for a test that is recommended before you have the test. If needed, case management services will be offered to you.

If treatment for breast or cervical cancer is needed, the HealthyWoman provider will help you to get treatment. The Program does not pay for treatment. Medicaid may be available to pay for treatment.

HealthyWoman Program Consent for Release of Information

I understand the explanation above about the Pennsylvania Department of Health, HWP for women. I agree to be screened by the HWP. I give permission to any and all of my healthcare providers to provide all personal and medical information to the DOH and its contractors involved in this Program, as necessary, to perform treatment, care, and healthcare operations. This includes information about screening and other test results, treatment, care, and information from this form. I give permission for the DOH to share information with my healthcare provider(s) as needed for treatment, payment, and healthcare operations. I understand that I can revoke this consent at any time, except to the extent that the DOH has already released information based on this consent. I may request further restrictions on the disclosure of my information.

I understand that any information I give to the DOH is confidential. This means the DOH will not disclose or share my information, except for the minimum necessary to administer the Program described above. Statistical reports which result from this Program will not use my name or any other identifying information.
